CYBER BULLYING GETS THE BOOT AMONG NASELLE STUDENTS

Seattle theatre's touring group sets the stage for prevention this spring

SEATTLE – April 9, 2009 – Southwest Washington students will learn the importance of treating each other with respect online when Taproot Theatre's Road Company visits from Seattle with its new educational touring play New Girl. With the widespread use of cell phones and social networking sites among children and teenagers, New Girl is aimed at preventing cyber bullying by educating youth and showing them the tragic results that sending or posting an insulting or threatening message can have. The play by Josh Hornbeck is one of three bullying and harassment prevention plays the group is performing at schools at Naselle-Grays River Valley Elementary, Junior and Senior High schools on April 13.

Cyber bullying poses a real threat to people's welfare, as seen in the case of 13-year-old Megan Meier. The Missouri girl committed suicide in 2006, allegedly after being sent a cruel message by someone masquerading as a teenage boy.

The results of various studies show that cyber bullying has affected a significant number of youth—the "Stop Bullying Now!" part of the Health Resources and Services Administration website lists results of several studies, which show that anywhere from 7 to 36 percent of youth have been impacted.

In New Girl, the impact of cyber bullying is explored through the lives of five high schoolers at Clements High—especially the new girl, Rachel, and an outcast, Edward, who becomes one of her first friends at school. New Girl traces the progression of insults and threats made to Edward as the school year gets off to a start, and the resulting downturn in his life. Edward gets the biggest blow of all when two bullies take Rachel under their wings and coerce her into joining their game.

About Taproot Theatre's Road Company

Taproot Theatre's Road Company has been touring dynamic social-issue plays to students throughout the Pacific Northwest since 1985. The Road Company reaches over 90,000 students each year with productions that address relevant social issues and provide youth with safe steps to approach them. In addition to the touring productions, Taproot Theatre provides teachers' guides and resources to facilitate classroom discussion and increase the effectiveness of the message. The actors are also available for individual classroom visits.

To book a show, contact Josiah Wallace at 206.529.3669 or touring@taproottheatre.org.

The Road Company is supported by 4Culture, ArtsFund, The Charles Simonyi Fund for Arts and Science, the Washington State Arts Commission, PONCHO and the Fred Meyer Fund. The media sponsor is ParentMap.

SCHOOL TOURING PLAYS

New Girl

by Josh Hornbeck

For Grades 6-12 | A play about the faces of harassment and the function of community.

Rachel is the new girl at Clements High. She wants to fit in and get along with everyone. But when two of the school's popular kids attempt to sabotage her friendships with two of the school's outcasts, Rachel learns that the way she treats others can have serious consequences. From cyber-abuse through instant messages and online social networking sites to verbal abuse in the halls, New Girl looks at the consequences of our actions and the need to treat everyone with kindness and respect.

Education Goals:

- Examine various forms of bullying and harassment, both subtle and overt
- Learn importance of respect
- Explore the dangers of cliques
- Understand personal and social responsibility

Alexander and the Dragon

by Bethany Wallace

For Grades K-6 | A play about bullying prevention.

Being a 5th grader is even harder than being a knight. When "Sir" Alexander returns to school after a summer of battling make-believe foes, he fails to stand up for the new girl getting bullied on the school bus. He unknowingly allows Maddy (Princess Madeline) to be captured by a "dragon," and is stripped of his knighthood. Will Alexander conquer the fire-breathing dragon and rescue the princess? Will his heroic quest restore his honor?

Education Goals: Bullying Prevention and Social Skills

- Recognize, Refuse and Report
- Responsibility of a bystander
- Initiating a friendship
- Engaging others in conversation
- Forgiving others
