Allies from Outer Space Teacher's Guide

The performance of Allies from Outer Space, along with the materials in this guide, is intended to supplement (not replace) current education and guidance on bullying and other related issues in the schools.

DISCUSSION ETIQUETTE

Due to the sensitive nature of the issues presented in Allies from Outer Space, it is very important for everyone to follow the standard ground rules for group discussion.

- ◆ Respect what others say without passing judgment.
- ◆ All things said within the group should remain confidential. Students ought to bear in mind that they should speak in general terms, as opposed to specific, when talking about personal or uncomfortable facts.
- ◆ Only those students who feel comfortable speaking should be asked to do so.

Play Summary

When a Reptai spaceship crashes on Earth, it's all that the students at Galaxia Elementary can talk about! Star, Norm, and Jupiter discuss things they've heard about the Reptai—that they never shower and are afraid of hand sanitizer. At the site of the crash, the Reptai Queen, Veranadai, sends her daughter Komodo on a secret mission to find out if humans have been using the technology that the Reptai have traded with them to bully each other. When Komodo arrives at Galaxia Elementary, Norm and Jupiter quickly become friends with her. Star is jealous, and chooses to do a class presentation on Reptai. Star attempts to gross her classmates out by claiming that Reptai live in slimy caves, eat bugs, and hate humans. Their robotic teacher, Roomba, chastises Star for her bad research and gives her an "F." When Star returns to the classroom later to discuss her grade, she discovers that Komodo has left her Sci-Pad on and logged into Spacebook. Star pretends to be Komodo and posts a nasty comment. The following day, Star and Jupiter shun Komodo and force her to eat alone. When Norm and Komodo explain to Roomba what has been happening, they teach them to recognize, refuse and report bullying behavior. When Komodo tries to confront Star, she breaks Komodo's Sci-Pad. Komodo reports to her mother that humans DO use their technology to bully others, and Veranadai begins setting up her Reptai Mega-Zap machines which will render all human technology inoperable. Meanwhile, Roomba confronts Star about her bullying behavior, and Star apologizes to Komodo. Star even gives Komodo her own Sci-Pad temporarily until Star is able to save up enough to buy Komodo a new one. Komodo is touched by this gesture, and realizes that they have to stop Veranadai before it's too late! As Roomba begins to malfunction from the Mega-Zap machines, Star and Komodo go on a wild chase to try to stop Veranadai from destroying all technology on Earth! In the end, Komodo and Veranadai fly happily back to Reptai, and Komodo and Star remain friends.

Definitions

Bullying: Bullying is one-sided and unfair. It happens when someone who is more powerful, physically or socially, repeatedly hurts, scares, threatens or leaves out another person on purpose.

Bystander: Someone who witnesses bullying behavior.

Positive Bystander: Someone who witnesses bullying behavior and helps the student being bullied, either by intervening in the situation or by reporting the behavior to an adult.

Tattling: Telling on someone just to get them in trouble or to get revenge.

Reporting: Telling on someone to keep you or someone else safe.

Recognize, Report, Refuse: When faced with a bullying situation, it is important to recognize that the behavior is a bullying behavior, report the behavior to a trusted adult who can help you refuse the behavior by staying calm and confident when asking them to stop. Recognizing, reporting, and refusing bullying focuses on safe ways to keep someone/yourself from getting hurt.

For Teachers Only

Handling Bullying Reporting with Students

From Committee for Children's Second Step curriculum

www.cfchildren.org

Following performances of our shows, schools often experience an increase in bullying reporting as students become aware that bullying is not acceptable and help is available. Administrators, counselors, and teachers are all seen by students as responsible adults who can help in a bullying situation.

Every school has their own process for handling bullying reporting. The following guidelines are used by permission of Committee for Children. They are taken directly from the Second Step curriculum and are intended to supplement (not replace) existing curriculum and guidelines already used in your school.

Handling Bullying Reports

The Four-A Response Process

Because Steps to Respect is a schoolwide program, it is essential that all staff know how to respond to bullying reports. Following is the process adults should use when a student reports bullying.

1. Affirm the child's feelings.

Ideas:

- a. "You were right to report/get help from an adult."
- b. "I'm glad you asked for help with this."

2. Ask questions.

Ideas:

- a. "Tell me more about what happened."
- b. "Has this happened before?"
- c. "Did anyone try to help you?"
- d. "Are you telling me this to get someone in trouble or to keep someone safe?"

3. Assess the child's safety.

Determine what the child needs to feel safe now.

4. Act.

Coach the child or refer the child for coaching.

Tell the child what will happen next.

Coaching Students Involved in Bullying Situations

Second Step Coaching Models

Once bullying has been reported, both the student who was bullied and the student who did the bullying must receive coaching—it is essential that no exceptions to this rule occur. Second Step recommends that all classroom teachers be prepared to coach students. The following sections detail the models teachers should use when coaching students.

Coaching the Student Who Was Bullied

Children rarely report the bullying they experience to adults—in part because they believe that adults are unable or unlikely to stop the harassment. Adults can combat children's feelings of helplessness by (1) affirming children's actions in reporting (which demonstrates that adults will provide the needed support and consequences) and (2) checking back with students who report bullying to see whether the problem has stopped.

Second Step recommends the following five-step model when coaching a child who has been bullied.

1. Affirm the child's feelings.
 - a. "You were right to report/get help from an adult."
2. Ask questions.

Get information about the current situation and the history of the situation
3. Identify what has and has not worked in the past.
4. Generate solutions for the future.

Ideas:

 - a. Discuss how the child can avoid the student who has bullied him or her. (Examples: The child could sit somewhere else, play somewhere else, or travel with a group of friends.)
 - b. Coach the student in using assertive refusal skills. (If relevant to the situation, remind the student that aggression is never an appropriate solution.)
 - c. Identify others (parents, teachers, friends) who can support the child
5. Follow up.

Ideas:

 - a. See how the plan is working.
 - b. Contact parents as appropriate.
 - c. Refer more serious or chronic cases to an administrator or counselor.

Coaching the Student Who Bullied

Your school's bullying policy should provide the necessary framework for applying consequences for student bullying. In addition to those consequences, children who bully need more targeted help addressing their problem behavior. Children are more likely to change problem behavior if adults help them select positive alternative behaviors and provide consistent feedback on their progress.

This coaching model (for use with students who bully) has five steps.

1. Identify the problem and diffuse reporting responsibility.

Ideas:

 - a. "I have been hearing that..."
 - b. Many students have reported that..."
2. Ask questions and gather information.

Ideas:

 - a. "I'd like to hear from you about what happened."
 - b. "How would you feel if this happened to you?"
3. Apply consequences.

Ideas:

 - a. Review the school policy regarding bullying.
4. Generate solutions for the future.

Ideas:

 - a. "What are some ways to prevent this happening again?"
5. Follow up.

Ideas:

 - a. See how the plan is working.
 - b. Contact parents as appropriate.
 - c. Refer students for further discipline as appropriate.
 - d. Refer more serious or chronic cases to an administrator or counselor.

Note: Be sure to coach the students who have been bullied separately from those who bullied them. Children who have been bullied are often frightened, and may deny that there is any problem when face-to-face with children who have repeatedly harassed them.
