Team Player Mode Teacher's Guide

The performance of Team Player Mode, along with the materials in this guide, is intended to supplement (not replace) current education and guidance on bullying and other related issues in the schools.

DISCUSSION ETIQUETTE

Due to the sensitive nature of the issues presented in Team Player Mode, it is very important for everyone to follow the standard ground rules for group discussion.

- ♦ Respect what others say without passing judgment.
- ♦ All things said within the group should remain confidential. Students ought to bear in mind that they should speak in general terms, as opposed to specific, when talking about personal or uncomfortable facts.
- ♦ Only those students who feel comfortable speaking should be asked to do so.

Play Summary

After Ben moves in with his dad, he finds out life at his new school is way different. On the first day of school his classmate Harper makes fun of his backpack, and tells him he's a rookie and can't join the 5th Grade Gamers Club with her, Kennedy, and Jonah until he completes a mission in the video game. At lunchtime Harper continues to make fun of him and makes him spill his lunch. Afterschool, Ben asks his best friend from his old school, Sophie, to start playing this new game, determined to complete a mission and join the club. Along the way, Ben and Sophie compete with PowerPlayer, another player in the game who feels oddly familiar to Ben. Meanwhile at school, things get worse as Harper continues to make fun of Ben and spill his lunch. Ben's dad encourages him to talk to his teacher Mrs. Adams; who teaches him about recognizing, reporting, and refusing bullying behavior. Later Ben asks Harper to stop bullying him and with the help of Jonah being a positive bystander, it works. Ben logs back on afterschool and encounters PowerPlayer yet again. He realizes it is Harper and confronts her. She admits she's a rookie too, and has never completed a mission on the game. Ben and Sophie invite her to join their team so they can complete the mission together. The next day at school Harper apologizes, and they all decide to start a new club where everyone is treated with respect. By the conclusion of the play the characters have discovered and practiced recognizing, reporting, and refusing bullying behavior and accepting differences; both at school and online.

2. Can you define bullying? What are some examples of bullying?
3. What does it mean to respect others? How can you respect someone you don't get along with, or who is different from yourself?
4. What should you do when you see someone being bullied? How do you know if the situation is safe for you to help?
5. Have you ever been picked on because you were different?
6. Do you think bullying is a problem at our school? Why or why not?

Definitions

Bullying: Bullying is one-sided and unfair. It happens when someone who is more powerful, physically or socially, repeatedly hurts, scares, threatens or leaves out another person on purpose.

Bystander: Someone who witnesses bullying behavior.

Positive Bystander: Someone who witnesses bullying behavior and helps the student being bullied, either by intervening in the situation or by reporting the behavior to an adult.

Tattling: Telling on someone just to get them in trouble or to get revenge.

Reporting: Telling on someone to keep you or someone else safe.

Recognize, Report, Refuse: When faced with a bullying situation, it is important to recognize that the behavior is a bullying behavior, report the behavior to a trusted adult who can help you refuse the behavior by staying calm and confident when asking them to stop. Recognizing, reporting, and refusing bullying focuses on safe ways to keep someone/yourself from getting hurt.

For Teachers Only

Handling Bullying Reporting with Students

From Committee for Children's Second Step curriculum

www.cfchildren.org

Following performances of our shows, schools often experience an increase in bullying reporting as students become aware that bullying is not acceptable and help is available. Administrators, counselors, and teachers are all seen by students as responsible adults who can help in a bullying situation.

Every school has their own process for handling bullying reporting. The following guidelines are used by permission of Committee for Children. They are taken directly from the Second Step curriculum and are intended to supplement (not replace) existing curriculum and guidelines already used in your school.

Handling Bullying Reports

The Four-A Response Process

Because Steps to Respect is a schoolwide program, it is essential that all staff know how to respond to bullying reports. Following is the process adults should use when a student reports bullying.

1. Affirm the child's feelings.

Ideas:

- a. "You were right to report/get help from an adult."
- b. "I'm glad you asked for help with this."

2. Ask questions.

Ideas:

- a. "Tell me more about what happened."
- b. "Has this happened before?"
- c. "Did anyone try to help you?"
- d. "Are you telling me this to get someone in trouble or to keep someone safe?"

3. Assess the child's safety.

Determine what the child needs to feel safe now.

4. Act.

Coach the child or refer the child for coaching.

Tell the child what will happen next.

Coaching Students Involved in Bullying Situations

Second Step Coaching Models

Once bullying has been reported, both the student who was bullied and the student who did the bullying must receive coaching—it is essential that no exceptions to this rule occur. Second Step recommends that all classroom teachers be prepared to coach students. The following sections detail the models teachers should use when coaching students.

Coaching the Student Who Was Bullied

Children rarely report the bullying they experience to adults—in part because they believe that adults are unable or unlikely to stop the harassment. Adults can combat children's feelings of helplessness by (1) affirming children's actions in reporting (which demonstrates that adults will provide the needed support and consequences) and (2) checking back with students who report bullying to see whether the problem has stopped.

Second Step recommends the following five-step model when coaching a child who has been bullied.

1. Affirm the child's feelings.
 - a. "You were right to report/get help from an adult."
2. Ask questions.

Get information about the current situation and the history of the situation
3. Identify what has and has not worked in the past.
4. Generate solutions for the future.

Ideas:

 - a. Discuss how the child can avoid the student who has bullied him or her. (Examples: The child could sit somewhere else, play somewhere else, or travel with a group of friends.)
 - b. Coach the student in using assertive refusal skills. (If relevant to the situation, remind the student that aggression is never an appropriate solution.)
 - c. Identify others (parents, teachers, friends) who can support the child
5. Follow up.

Ideas:

 - a. See how the plan is working.
 - b. Contact parents as appropriate.
 - c. Refer more serious or chronic cases to an administrator or counselor.

Coaching the Student Who Bullied

Your school's bullying policy should provide the necessary framework for applying consequences for student bullying. In addition to those consequences, children who bully need more targeted help addressing their problem behavior. Children are more likely to change problem behavior if adults help them select positive alternative behaviors and provide consistent feedback on their progress.

This coaching model (for use with students who bully) has five steps.

1. Identify the problem and diffuse reporting responsibility.

Ideas:

 - a. "I have been hearing that..."
 - b. Many students have reported that..."
2. Ask questions and gather information.

Ideas:

 - a. "I'd like to hear from you about what happened."
 - b. "How would you feel if this happened to you?"
3. Apply consequences.

Ideas:

 - a. Review the school policy regarding bullying.
4. Generate solutions for the future.

Ideas:

 - a. "What are some ways to prevent this happening again?"
5. Follow up.

Ideas:

 - a. See how the plan is working.
 - b. Contact parents as appropriate.
 - c. Refer students for further discipline as appropriate.
 - d. Refer more serious or chronic cases to an administrator or counselor.

Note: Be sure to coach the students who have been bullied separately from those who bullied them. Children who have been bullied are often frightened, and may deny that there is any problem when face-to-face with children who have repeatedly harassed them.
